

The Centre for Muslim-Christian Studies

Michaelmas 2017 Research Seminars

Muslim-Christian Encounters in History and Theology

A series of seminars designed to give scholars and graduate students a chance to present their in-progress research.

Tuesdays 2:30-4:00 pm , unless otherwise stated

17th October

Alasdair Watson

Bodleian Libraries and Oriental Institute, University of Oxford

From the Venerable Bede to George Sale,

Gentleman: Glimpses of the History of European Engagement with Islam as reflected in the Collections of the Bodleian Libraries, Oxford

30th October (MONDAY)

Mohammed Gamal Metawea

PhD candidate
SOAS, University of London

Towards Building a Muslim Theology

of Religions: Salvation in the Islamic Tradition in conversation with the Christian discussion of exclusivism, inclusivism and pluralism

14th November

Dr Georgina Jardim

CMCS International Partnerships Facilitator

Experiencing Qur'anic studies research as a Christian: the Qur'an as a theology of signs?

21st November

Dr Philip Booth

A.G. Leventis Lecturer in Eastern Christianity, University of Oxford

Writing the History of the Muslim Conquest of Egypt

28th November

Hazel Anderson

Oxford Centre for Mission Studies, formerly Archivist at the National Records of Scotland

Exploring the role of women in Christian mission in Syria and Egypt from 1860-1930s through the MECO Archive in the CMCS Library

All welcome!

Light refreshments are available 30 minutes before the seminar begins.

CMCS, The Song School, 109A Iffley Rd, Oxford, OX4 1EH